

Close to 16,000 Utahns could gain coverage under HB 437.

But who are they and how do they qualify?

This article will walk you through the eligibility rules for HB 437 to answer the following three questions:

- 1) Who is eligible for HB 437's new Medicaid coverage?
- 2) Who will remain in the coverage gap?
- 3) When will people be allowed to enroll?

Policy Work

2015 was a year of firsts for health reform in Utah. In January statewide ACA enrollment reached 300,000, a figure that climbed to 120,000 by mid-summer and 150,000 by year-end.

We also weathered the first contraction of Utah's insurance marketplace following the withdrawal of Archer Health Plans. In response UHPP leveraged our enrollment assistors and media connections to help consumers understand and respond to this new challenge. Our educational message evolved to address next-generation health reform topics such as health-care literacy, rate review, and cost control. UHPP staff made over 35 presentations reaching over 1,500 people. Our staff also appeared on four TV talk webcasts and contributed to 16 op-eds.

We solidified our position as the state's most informed and reliable experts on health reform, achieving over 220 mentions in the local and national media. When the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the ACA in mid-June, UHPP placed ten first-person stories in local and national media.

In December at UHPP's policy conference we debuted the Utah Healthcare Index.
